Manufacture quality according to industrial standard.

To ensure the highest quality standards and availability of goods, the production of our the production of our fittings takes place in state-of-the-art production facilities in Northern Italy. Every single component is tested and manually checked for technical and aesthetic perfection before completion. In the VALLONE Lab, designers, developers and technicians bundle their know-how for optimal processes and solutions around our collections.

certified components, standardised technology.

Product development focuses on longevity and durability.

The premium hallmark of VALLONE®-taps is not limited to its exterior. Exchangeable ceramic cartridges, water-saving aerators or weather-resistant seals: all the components are sourced from leading EU suppliers and are certified to German industry standards (DVGW [German Technical and Scientific Association for Gas and Water], KTW [Organic materials in contact with drinking water], etc.). The installation technology has been developed jointly with the trade, to allow simple and intuitive installation and thereby save installation time and money.

preservation of resources & sustainability.

Water-saving aerators for responsible use of drinking water.

VALLONE® uses environmentally friendly components and durable raw materials to promote awareness of the value of natural resources. Our washbasin fittings are therefore exclusively using water-saving aerators from the German market leader NEOPERL, thus reducing water consumption by up to 60% – not only will this reduce the water consumed and protect the environment, it also eliminates annoying splashing water in daily use.

The fitting collection COMO, made of pure stainless steel, is based on clear, minimalist forms and the perfect balance between rectilinearity and soft contours

All products are made from the most durable of all materials: pure stainless steel, matt-brushed or, on demand, in striking metallic tones. This way we use the best resource of nature for the most valuable element of nature: our drinking water.
